On Saturday, more than 300 local Comcast employees and their families and friends will volunteer to improve Conner Prairie as part of Comcast's eighth annual "Comcast Cares Day." At the same time across the country, a total of more than 50,000 Comcast volunteers will participate on this annual day of service, which is one of the largest single days of corporate volunteer efforts in the country. Comcast Cares Day is one way that Comcast helps to power dreams and demonstrate a year-round commitment to making a difference in the communities it serves.

Comcast employees and family members will work at the living history museum on a variety of landscaping projects. Volunteers will also build a fence for a Civil War reenactment and fill sandbags for a hot air balloon exhibit that will debut at Conner Prairie this summer.

ADVERTISEMENT "Comcast Cares Day is an event I look forward to every year," said Comcast Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, Brian L. Roberts. "It is truly a moving experience to work with thousands of our employees, their families, friends and our partners across the country to help make people's dreams a reality and make a positive impact in our neighborhoods."

"Comcast is proud to be an active member of the Hamilton County community, and Comcast Cares Day is our commitment to improving the quality of life in communities we serve," added Scott Tenney, Comcast's senior vice president for the Indianapolis Region. "There is nothing more rewarding than giving back, and I'm grateful to the 300 Comcast Cares Day volunteers who will be donating their time to help make such a big difference."

More than 1,000 Comcast employees and their family members will volunteer at nine Comcast Cares Day projects in Indiana this year. Projects will be held in Anderson, Bloomington, Fort Wayne, Kokomo, Lafayette, Muncie, Noblesville, Peru and Richmond.
